To Lay Amesite On Tremper Ave. And Manor Ave.

Board of Public Works Decides to Lay Those Streets With This Road Material—Now Used on Hurley Road—Park Committee Submits Report—Other Matters Before the Board.

Tremper avenue and Manor avenue are to be rebuilt this year with Amesite, a patented road building material which has never before been used in Kingston. This was decided upon at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Public Works held Tuesday evening at the city hall. The cost of Amesite is $7.25 per net ton, and the freight charge is $1.36 per ton, making the cost of the material $8.61 a ton.

It will take about 920 tons to cover Tremper avenue from O'Neil street to Albany avenue.

Manor avenue, from Albany avenue to Kierstead Lane, will require 550 tons, while Manor avenue, from Foxhall avenue to Albany, will require 840 tons.

The cost of Amesite to be used, including the freight, will amount to $24,247, it was stated at the meeting.

While Amesite has never been used in Kingston, about two years ago it was laid over the macadam on the Hurley road from the city line toward the village of Hurley, and it was stated that the material was holding up well.

To Order Dustoline.

Several requests have been received by the board asking that oil be spread on the streets to lay the dust, and it was decided to obtain a price on a carload of Dustoline, which has been so successfully used in past years.

Park Committee Reports.

Commissioner Louis Stork, chairman of the park committee of the board, submitted the following report, which was approved:

"The park committee has received the report of the park committee of the city of New York, which was submitted to the board of public works at its meeting on April 26, 1932. The report contains a list of parks in the city of New York, and a description of the condition of each park. The committee has reviewed the report, and has found that the parks in the city of New York are in good condition, and that the city of New York is doing a good job of maintaining its parks."

No. 1—A committee of the Ulster Garden Club, consisting of Mrs. William Warren, Mrs. Elsie Knauth and Mrs. Janet Fowler, recently conferred with Mayor Carey in reference to Academy Park. As in previous years, they desire to continue their interest and supervision at Academy Park. They request that the Board of Public Works plant suitable flowers in the large flower bed in the park. The cost to be $64. The planting to be done as soon as possible after May 15.

No. 2—They were much pleased with the services as rendered in the park by Ira Bonesteel, the caretaker, and have decided to engage him for this season.

No. 3—They also request, if we can find it possible, to continue the curbing, as started last year, around the entire park.

No. 4—They also draw to our attention the fact that children under the age of ten years use the pool for wading purposes. While it was not the intent that the pool would be used by children for such purposes, and since we desire to encourage children to use it, we must do something to protect the children from contamination. As now arranged, there is no continuous drainage of the water and to properly protect the child we suggest:

First, that the location of the water supply line be changed so as to introduce the water from a series of four 12 inch tees spaced fourteen feet apart along the north wall and at the bottom of the pool.

Second, that the present overflow be discontinued and replaced by a scumlip to be constructed on the south wall at the water surface. The details of the scumlip are shown on the accompanying sketch and it is to be drained to the present outlet in the Maiden Lane sanitary sewer.

New York Central Plans To Rebuild Bridges In City

Bridges Over Albany Avenue, Elmendorf Street and Delaware Avenue Tunnel to Be Renewed and Strengthened—Matter Taken Up With Public Works Board.

That the New York Central Railroad plans to renew and strengthen the railroad bridges at Albany avenue, Elmendorf street and at Delaware and Hasbrouck avenues, was brought out at the regular meeting of the Board of Public Works Tuesday evening when H. E. Keator, assistant supervisor of bridges and buildings of the railroad, met with the board to explain just what the New York Central planned to do. Work will be started shortly at Albany avenue and then will be followed by the Elmendorf street job and finally at the Delaware avenue tunnel.

Mr. Keator said that the railroad planned to renew and strengthen the bridges. At Albany avenue it was planned to make the present unsightly fence more slightly by tearing down the present fence and rebuilding a new fence at a height of 4 to 5 feet on the bridge and then sloping it down to conform with the height of fences on adjoining private properties.

At Elmendorf street it was planned to use Amesite on either side of the bridge for a distance of fifty feet each side if necessary so as to make the bridge grade gradual and easier riding for cars passing over the bridge.

Several changes were planned for the Delaware avenue tunnel. The railroad desired the use of about nine feet of unused city property for sidewalk purposes at that point. It also desired to remove the present truss.

Mr. Keator submitted several blue prints showing the proposed work and changes contemplated. After considerable discussion the board agreed that the proposed improvements at Albany avenue and Elmendorf street would be of benefit and the railroad was granted permission to go ahead with the work as planned.

The question of changes at the Delaware avenue tunnel was left open. The board said they would meet with Mr. Keator at the tunnel Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock to go over the ground before granting permission.

Other matters taken at the meeting will be found elsewhere.

Sergeant Cunningham Returns Runaways

Monday Sergeant James Cunningham received notice from "K" Troop to be on the watch for Edgar Donado, 15 years old, of 17 Post avenue, New York city, and John Francis, 15 years old, of 25 Post avenue, New York city, who were supposed to be hiding toward Ulster county. Their folks had reported that the lads had decided to leave home and see the world.

In compliance with the request of members of "K" Troop Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Knapp took up the search and it was learned that the lads might be enroute to the Price home at Ashokan. Monday night while patrolling the boulevard the sergeant and his driver stopped at Winchell's store and there found the two lads. They admitted their identity and stated they were searching for work.

Both were brought to Kingston by the Troopers and "K" Troop headquarters notified. Pending instructions the lads were kept at the court house in charge of the Troopers. Later word was received that funds would be sent to pay the fare of the two back home. They frankly stated to the Troopers that they would not return home if placed on the train.

"Troop 4" was again communicated with and later Tuesday instructions came for Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Knapp to start south with the lads and that a Troop car from "K" barracks would start north and meet the "C" Troop car and transfer the lads.

Sergeant Cunningham left late Tuesday afternoon with the two lads who will be returned to their home by members of "K" Troop. Communication with "K" Troop headquarters was by means of the telephone through local police headquarters.

Willys Returns to Head Auto Company

Toledo, O., April 27 (AP).—Officers of the Willys Overland Co. made preparations today for the resumption of active control of the concern by John N. Willys, known as one of the outstanding pioneers of the automobile industry.

Willys, at Washington yesterday, resigned as ambassador to Poland, and said he was prompted by a desire to give more attention to business. At about the same hour the directors re-elected him chairman of the board. All of the other officers and directors were re-elected.

In announcing his resignation as ambassador, Willys said the action was taken "in order to be as helpful as possible in a business way during this difficult period."

Secretary Mills Attacks Arguments In Favor Of Bonus

Washington, April 27 (AP).—Secretary Mills today launched a powerful administration offensive against cash payment of the soldiers' bonus. He spoke before the house ways and means committee appearing as a witness in its extended hearings on the issue.

In language no less forceful than that Charles G. Dawes employed before the same committee a week ago, the new treasury chief drove home his opposition to the $2,400,000,000 outlay, whether paid in borrowed money or through inflation of the currency.

"The measure now before you is designed to pay an obligation not due, in money that is not honest," Mills said. "The adjusted service certificates do not mature until 1945. To pay them at their face value today, less the amount that has been borrowed on them would, in effect, almost double the payment provided for by the adjusted service compensation act and would involve an immediate cost to the government of about $2,400,000,000."

"In other words the government is to pay almost twice the amount it undertook to pay."

"To select this moment," he went on, "to destroy our hopes of a balanced budget and to deal a smashing blow to national confidence, is to me incomprehensible. The proponents of the measure fully recognize that the cost cannot be borne by legitimate means."

"They would discharge what they state to be a solemn obligation of the government by setting the printing presses to work printing dishonest dollars. For a great, powerful nation to deliberately to adopt this insidious and essentially dishonest device would to my mind be worse than an act of financial bankruptcy. It would constitute moral bankruptcy."

"Destroy confidence and you dry up credit and paralyze enterprise. No measure was ever drafted better calculated to destroy confidence than the one now before you. Enact it now into law and you will stifle all hope of any early economic recovery and write the most lamentable chapter in American history."

Though he thus dealt chiefly with the Patman bill for an issue of treasury notes to cash the bonus, Mills attacked arguments of those who advocated borrowing the necessary funds.

"The financial position of the government is not such as to permit the treasury to meet this demand," he said. "We are faced with an enormous deficit. No additional $2,400,000,000 can be raised by taxation."

"Taking into consideration all of the elements of the existing situation, no such sum can be borrowed except at excessive cost, with serious embarrassment to the government in meeting its unavoidable obligations and with damage to the public credit."

Then, reminding the committee of his own veteran status and service in organizing the American Legion, Mills said:

"Nothing will persuade me that the men who 15 years ago stood ready to give their lives to their country in the crisis of war, are today, in a crisis which is so far as human misery and suffering is concerned, far exceeds anything experienced during the war years, really seeking the huge grant of $2,400,000,000 the effect of which will impair public and private credit, to destroy confidence and to prolong the depression."

"The passage of this bill would, in my judgment, deal such a severe blow to public confidence as to make the consequences almost incalculable."

ATHEIST HEAD GETS REVERSAL OF DECISION

Albany, N. Y., April 27 (AP).—The Court of Appeals reversed the lower courts of New York city which convicted Charles Smith, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, of violating an ordinance regarding public worship.

The decision handed down yesterday, written by Judge Frederick E. Crane, said Smith was arrested and convicted of doing the very thing he was denouncing—conducting of public worship in violation of the city ordinance. He was denouncing worship in any form and calling up on his hearers to abandon worship.

Will Put Chock Under Bandwagon. Declares Smith

New York, April 27 (AP).—The first decisive check in the march of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt toward the Democratic presidential nomination drew from former Governor Alfred E. Smith today the remark:

"Well, I guess this will put a chock under the bandwagon."

At the time he spoke his state of delegates-at-large from Massachusetts to the Democratic National Convention had defeated the Roosevelt slate overwhelmingly. In Pennsylvania's preferential primary, he was only about 2,500 votes behind Roosevelt, whose supporters had expected him to show enough strength so there could be no doubt of his getting 65 votes out of the state's 76 in the convention.

"This is going to make a difference," Smith observed, "to a lot of fellows who otherwise might have climbed right aboard the bandwagon, thinking there was nothing else to do."

Smith would make no definite predictions as to the effect of the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries.

"It's too early yet," he said. "I haven't talked to anyone who could give me any indication."

His friends, however, were predicting that he would have 200 votes on his side when the convention opens in Chicago. They were claiming Connecticut and Rhode Island for him and were expressing optimism about Vermont and California.

"One thing I noticed," former Governor Smith said with a smile, "is that the delegate at the bottom of the fence up my side of the fence up in Massachusetts got more votes than the fellow with the highest number of votes on the other side."

Abraham Kesselman, lawyer for the men, said the recent payment by Lindbergh of $50,000 to a person believed to have been a representative of the kidnapers was the reason for their withdrawal.

"I know that Spitaler pleaded with Colonel Lindbergh not to pay this $50,000 through Dr. Condon," Kesselman said. "I do not know what prompted him (Spitaler) to do so or what information he had on which he based his attitude."

The ransom money was paid on the night of April 2 by Dr. John F. Condon, known as "Jafie". The money was handed by Dr. Condon over a fence in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx, to a man who represented himself as an agent for the abductors. The child was not returned in exchange for the money.

Kesselman said that neither Spitaler nor Bitz had any idea as to the identity of the kidnapers.

Spitaler and Bitz were appointed "go-betweens" by Col. Lindbergh on March 5, four days after his son was snatched from his crib in the nursery of the fier's New Jersey home in Sourland Mountain.

Heflin Contest Up To Senate Decision

Washington, April 27 (AP).—Bound to silence once again, J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama, watched and heard the senate proceed today on the contest to unseat his successor, a fight which brought him yesterday the priceless privilege of five hours of oratory in that exclusive forum.

Master of impassioned phrases in the old tradition of public speaking, the former senator employed every talent he possessed in the desperate battle against political eclipse, and was rewarded with such a burst of gallery applause as he brought his plea to a smashing end, that the senate peremptorily ousted all spectators.

Decisive Victory For Alfred E. Smith In Massachusetts

Bay State's 36 Votes in Democratic Convention Pledged to Former Governor—One of the Most Bitterly Fought Campaigns.

Boston, April 27 (AP).—Massachusetts 36 votes in the 1932 Democratic convention today were pledged to Alfred E. Smith.

Repeating his success of 1928, when as the Democratic standard bearer he carried Massachusetts, Smith swept through in yesterday's preferential primary to a decisive victory over Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A Smith-pledged slate of delegates at large, headed by a trio consisting of Governor Joseph B. Ely, and United States Senators David I. Walsh and Marcus A. Coolidge, crushed the Roosevelt slate led by Mayor James M. Curley by a vote of nearly three to one.

President Hoover received 33 of the 34 votes which Massachusetts will have in the Republican convention. He was assured of 31 through lack of opposition, before the primary.

The one Republican delegate not pledged to Hoover is William F. Whiting of Holyoke, intimate friend of Calvin Coolidge and successor to Hoover as secretary of commerce in the Coolidge cabinet. He refused to be pledged.

The only contest in which prohibition was involved was won by a pair of anti-prohibitionist Republican candidates pledged to President Hoover in the Ninth district over two prohibition candidates also pledged to the president. The winners were Mayor Sinclair Weeks of Newton and the late Secretary of War John W. Weeks, and State Representative Albert F. Bigelow.

The total vote cast in the primary ran more than 200,000 four times as large as that cast four years ago, but less than political leaders had anticipated. Inclement weather and unseasoned apathy in many of the districts outside of greater Boston appeared to have contributed to the lightness of the vote.

Smith's victory came after one of the most bitterly fought campaigns in the history of Massachusetts. A feud of several years standing between Mayor Curley and the regular Democratic state organization, as personified by Gov. Ely and Frank J. Donahue, state chairman, who named the Smith slate, cast a shadow over the campaign that at times hid the real issue—Smith or Roosevelt.

How to Roosevelt Adherents.

The defeat came as a severe blow to the Roosevelt adherents. Mayor Curley and James Roosevelt, son of Governor Roosevelt and also a candidate for delegate at large, had hoped to get at least a few places on the at-large ticket and several district delegates. Although a newcomer to Massachusetts politics, James Roosevelt ran neck and neck with Mayor Curley at the head of the Roosevelt slate.

Senator Walsh received the highest total vote on the Smith slate with 153,203. Governor Ely was in second place with 148,944. Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, of Boston, had 141,508 for third place, and William J. Foley, district attorney of Suffolk county, ran fourth with 143,560.

The highest Roosevelt vote, that given James Roosevelt, was 56,436. Mayor Curley received 56,454 votes with the totals for the remainder of the Roosevelt slate running as low as 44,527.

The 12 delegates-at-large have a half a vote each in the convention whereas the district delegates have a full vote each. The Republican delegates have a full vote each.

The Republican-at-large slate which was chosen without opposition consisted of former U. S. Senator William M. Butler, former Governor Elwin T. Fuller, George F. Booth, Worcester publisher, and Marry Pratt Potter of Greenfield.

Roosevelt Holds Slim Clarence Darrow to Lead in Pennsylvania Preference Primary

Expectations of Roosevelt For Sweep- ing Victory Thwarted—Unknown How Votes Will Be Divided.

Philadelphia, April 27 (AP).—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt held a slim lead in Pennsylvania's preferential primary today, but the question of how he and his one-time political ally, Alfred E. Smith, would divide the state's 76 convention votes was a guessing game.

With 3,971 out of the 5,181 districts in the state tabulated, the vote stood:

Roosevelt, 47,310.
Smith, 46,671.

Meanwhile Senator James J. Davis, a Republican who formerly sat in the cabinet at Washington, was smashing the sentimental hopes of Mayor Gen. Smedley D. Butler, navy marine corps veteran and outspoken dry.

Davis 2 to 1.

The almost 2 to 1 vote for Davis pointed to a damaging blow to the political sway of Governor Gifford Pinchot, who as leader of the Independent Republican faction stumped for Butler.

The vote in 4,395 districts out of 5,181 gave:

Davis, 524,550.
Butler, 275,935.

Davis was backed by the Varian Martin state organization, while Butler assailed what he termed the "corrupt machine." Gen. Edward S. Martin said today Davis would win by 400,000 and other candidates backed by the organization would make a clean sweep. Davis carried Philadelphia, stronghold of William S. Vare, by more than 4 to 1.

Smith's Strength.

Included in the Smith-Roosevelt vote were 1,072 of the 1,565 districts in Philadelphia where Smith's strength was especially concentrated. The vote in these districts was: Smith 11,338; Roosevelt 6,994.

A victory by Smith in the preferential balloting would be considered a disaster to Roosevelt's presidential aspirations. The governor's supporters hoped for the psychological advantage a victory would bring.

It will be some time before it is definitely known how Pennsylvania's 76 votes will line up for the ballot. The vote in these districts was: Smith 11,338; Roosevelt 6,994.

A victory by Smith in the preferential balloting would be considered a disaster to Roosevelt's presidential aspirations. The governor's supporters hoped for the psychological advantage a victory would bring.

Will Attempt to Clear Four Americans of Second Degree Murder With Three Hour Summation of Case to Go to Jury Today

Honolulu, April 27 (AP).—Clarence Darrow, famous criminal attorney, today faced his final attempt to clear four Americans in a murder trial which brought the 75-year-old legal veteran out of retirement.

He was to present a 2-hour argument before a racially mixed jury which is trying Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, her son-in-law, and two navy enlisted men for the slaying of Joseph Kahahawai. The Hawaiian allegedly had confessed participation in a criminal attack on Mrs. Thalia Massie, the naval officer's wife.

Although the prosecution was allotted a period following Darrow's address, attorneys for both sides were hopeful the case would be in the hands of the jury before adjournment for the day. An afternoon session of the court was planned. The instructions of Judge Charles S. Davis remain to be given after the closing arguments.

"Unwritten" Law.

Darrow was expected to plead not only the defense contention that Lieutenant Massie was momentarily insane when he held the pistol that killed Kahahawai, but also the "unwritten law."

The insanity plea presumably had a jolt coming at the hands of Judge Davis in the instructions. This was forecast by a remark of Barry S. Ulrich, associate prosecutor, in his address to the jury yesterday.

Ulrich told the jurors Judge Davis would instruct that the insanity plea would not be sufficient to clear Massie if it merely showed Massie to be mentally deranged at the moment the shot was fired. Ulrich also said the judge would rule the insanity defense, in order to be considered, would have to indicate the naval officer was mentally deranged through every step of the tragedy. Kahahawai was slain early in January.

Neither Judge Davis nor the defense challenged Ulrich's statement.

Massie's Mind Blank.

In the defense testimony the claim was made Massie's mind went blank when he stood before Kahahawai with a pistol and heard the native confess the attack on Mrs. Massie.

The navy officer testified he remembered nothing thereafter until he was taken to the police station, less than two hours later.

Among Ulrich's statements to the jury were: "The alleged fact the deceased assaulted the wife of one of the defendants furnishes no defense for any of the defendants."

"If you accept this insanity plea then you publish to the world that Hawaii is a safe place to commit murder if you have money enough."

"You cannot make Hawaii safe against rape by licensing murder."

George S. Leasure, Darrow's associate, told the jury that but for Kahahawai's death other women might have been attacked. He sought to minimize Ulrich's statement that the political future of Hawaii depended upon the verdict.

Ulrich, Judge Davis' instructions alter the situation, the jury may bring in a conviction of second degree murder, as charged, manslaughter, or acquittal. Second degree murder is punishable by 20 years to life imprisonment.

TELLS SCHOOLS WISE USE OF MONEY TRUE THRIFT

Albany, N. Y., April 27 (AP).—The state commissioner of education, Dr. Frank P. Graves, wants the school districts to "practice every economy" but he wants them to remember, too, that "true thrift consists in wise spending as well as saving."

In a letter to be read to trustees and patrons of common school districts at the annual meeting, he warned against cutting school funds to the point where the schools and the children's education will suffer.

He pleaded especially that the best teachers be selected. "Whatever economies may be necessary, let us not attempt to save money by engaging inefficient, or poorly trained teachers," his letter said.

UNION COLLEGE STUDENT MISSING SINCE MONDAY

Schenectady, N. Y., April 27 (AP).—Arthur S. Plummer, 26-year-old Union College freshman from Mal-den, Mass., walked from his room Monday afternoon and has not been seen since. Police here have revealed. The last person to see Plummer, the son of Arthur J. Plummer, a Boston attorney, was his room-mate, Myron V. Palmer of Rochester. Palmer said yesterday that Plummer left supposedly to wash his laundry home, but since his disappearance, Palmer recalled that his room-mate seemed to be packing clean clothes.

Two Police Court Cases.

Frederick Hills, 34, of 17 Tompkins street, was arrested by his father, William Hills, Tuesday on a charge of disorderly conduct. This morning the father failed to appear in police court to press the charge and the son was discharged. George Goldfarb, 17, of 343 Washington avenue, arrested for operating an auto with a junior license and not complying with the provisions under which the license was issued, was fined $2.

Flashes of Life Sketched In Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Miami—The director of the seniors' class play at Booker T. Washington High School wanted more "life" in the action, and came nearly getting the opposite. The villain in the piece, imbued with new enthusiasm, picked up the pistol and pulled the trigger. Two members of the cast dropped—shot. Their condition is not critical.

Sydney, Australia—The judge, in Mrs. Almee Belle Edol's opinion, is an old meanie. She declined to tell him the source of her wealth and was ordered to prison for contempt. She says she'll stay there the rest of her life rather than apologize to "that horrid judge." Which is, of course, her privilege.

St. Louis—Dr. McFall of the Bureau of the Census, after studying the figures, makes the startling statement that drugstores in St. Louis actually sell drugs. Sale of drugs and the filling of prescriptions generally, he added, constitute 40 per cent of the retail drug business.

Salt Lake City—Carrots for cash! The city commission has agreed to take the vegetables in payment of rent for a tract of land. The poor animals in the zoo will eat them.

Muskogee—Whoever was responsible for the carload of underwear sent for distribution among the five civilized tribes of Indians here probably meant well but was a poor judge of climate. All the underwear was woolen, which at this time of year is ridiculous.

New York—A special broadcasting station aboard a ship at sea is to be installed so Rosa Ponselle can sing one song on a May 1 program. She will sing from aboard the liner Saturnia.

When you consider the purchase of new tires be sure that you are buying the best. Quality and long, carefree mileage is the test of true tire quality. Extravagant praise and ballyhoo may sell tires for a time, but only real tire quality can keep the customer satisfied. Forget the cheap second grade, low priced tire when next you buy. News of Today In Kingston

The flag is still not being displayed from the flag pole on the city hall grounds. It is said that one man accepted the contract to repair the poles that had been cut in the early part of the month by some vandals, and also paint the pole, but when he found that he would have to wait until June for his money on the contract, he quit the job.

However, it was announced this morning that the Moore Brothers, who are the high climbers around Kingston, took the contract. One of the brothers was looking over the job this morning and said they would start this afternoon.

The "lost" hats from Flanagan, Archer and Watkins clothing store on Wall street, which had been carried off to the city dump in error, cost six men, who were employed on an ash truck and at the dump, a week's wages. It was reported at the Board of Public Works meeting Tuesday night. The hats were a shipment that had been received at the store on ash collection day on Wall street and in some manner was placed on the curb, collected by the ashmen and taken to the dump.

When the loss was discovered all knowledge of the missing hats was denied by the six men. Through the efforts of Sergeant Phiney of the police department, a dozen hats were recovered and returned to the store. When the matter was brought to the attention of the city authorities, it resulted in Superintendent Van Keuren being instructed to lay the six men off for a week.

They proved to be real costly hats. Mayor Carey is not the only one receiving letters from persons in favor of having a beer parade in Kingston. A man connected with the former Hauck brewery has received a letter from a Dora Claxton, former actress, in which she offered her services to ride on a float. She would wear an old Dutch costume and hold in her hand a stein overflowing with brew.

That turkey dinner given to Battery A, 156th Field Artillery, Monday night at the armory was not tendered by Lieutenant Colonel B. R. Blakeslee as stated in this column yesterday. It was just plain Lieutenant Blakeslee. But that colonel crept in somehow, unofficially raising the commander of Battery A a few ranks. "But what's a few ranks where our officer is concerned," say the boys of the battery. "The lieutenant is a good scout anyhow."

It's hard to know what to wear these days. One hour it's warm and the next hour it's cold. Someone suggested wearing a bathing suit for underwear and a one-piece set of fur lined overalls with a "zipper" on it so that quick changes can be made as the temperature varies.

Rumor has it that Jack Sharkey is trying to hire the American Legion Drum Corps to give a concert at his training camp on May 9, the date set for Max Schmeling's arrival in Kingston.

The drum corps has accepted an invitation to take part in the welcome celebration for Schmeling and it is thought that Jack wants to lure the former sailors, doughboys and marines by an attractive offer, thus putting a crimp in the welcome parade for the champ.

However, the Legion keeping its word will remain in Kingston for the arrival of Schmeling, and take a prominent part in the big time for him.

To Decide Next Step In Stock Probe

Washington, April 27 (AP).—The new steering group which has taken charge of the Senate stock exchange investigation undertook today to map a rigorous course for future proceedings, involving probably a detailed examination of brokerage house books.

The question of sending agents in to Wall Street to perform this service, already generally approved by the whole banking committee, had to be settled definitely. But Chairman Norbeck (R., S. D.) had an eye on more immediate affairs, with the intention of resuming hearings within a few days.

For this the committee had the choice of two leads: To go deeper into the pools in which Perey Rockefeller and such big traders participated, or to follow the trail blazed by Representative La Guardia's charges of extensive subsidizing of New York financial writers to "ballyhoo" stocks.

Should the first be followed, there was much speculation as to whether John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, might be subpoenaed, as he was one of the most prominent men named by witnesses as taking part in big pools.

The second lead brought before the committee the question of calling A. Newton Plummer, New York publicist agent, who, La Guardia said, paid out more than a quarter of a million to writers. Plummer now is under indictment with a group of seven others, charged with forging stock certificates.

Rhubarb has begun to arrive in small quantities from nearby gardens. Today's receipts showed poor color and therefore met a limited demand with values lower, in a weaker market. The latest sales on western New York U. S. No. 1 round, white potatoes in bulk, per 180 lbs., were reported at $2.00-$2.10. Florida, U. S. No. 1 Spaulding Rose, in double headed barrels, changed hands at $8.50-9.25, principally $8.75-$9.00.

Miss March Played A Return Engagement

Blustery Miss March today paid a return engagement in Kingston, and at noon while the sun was shining snow flakes were falling and a cold, blustery wind swept through the streets.

Last Saturday the weather grew colder after several days of most enjoyable spring weather, and since then thermometers have touched the freezing point, snow has fallen and there has been frost.

The wind that blew today was a typical March wind that swept off the headgear of the men and nipped the ears.

SQUAW TELLS TALE OF PRIMITIVE LOVE

Remarkable Story Secured
by Smithsonian Man.

Washington.—Childhood love and death in a primitive society are pictured in an intensely human document just issued by the Smithsonian Institution.

It is the life story of a southern Cheyenne woman, told by herself. The narrative was secured by Dr. Truman Michelson, Smithsonian ethnologist.

There are many common elements in the life of this child of a nomadic prairie people and little girls everywhere, the autobiography bears witness.

"At first," she says, "we girls played what we called 'toy play.' Our mothers made rag dolls like men, women, boys, girls and babies. We used forked sticks for poles and placed the toy people on the fork of the sticks, pretending to move camp. Sometimes a baby would be born or a marriage would take place—in fact, anything we knew about older people. We did not allow any boys to play with us. We had rag dolls to represent boys.

"As I grew a little older, we played what we called 'large play.' This play consisted of real people, namely boys and girls. The boys would go out hunting and bring meat and other food. We girls would pitch our tepees and make ready everything as if it were real camp life. Some of the boys would go on the warpath and always come home victorious. They would relate their war experiences, telling how successful they were. We girls would sing war songs to acknowledge the bravery of our heroes."

Reputed All Suitors.

As she grew older various young braves tried to force their attentions upon her but, being an exceptionally proper maiden according to the teachings of her people, she repulsed all her suitors.

One evening she came home from a visit to a girl chum to find that a man whom she barely knew by sight had been negotiating with her father for her hand. She was told that her parents were growing old and must make some provision for the future of their children.

So, after she had consented, her relatives escorted her to a point near the camp of her intended husband. "There," she relates, "my future husband's women folks met me, carried me in a blanket the rest of the way, and let me down to the entrance of his tepee. I walked in and sat beside him. He was a stranger. He had never come to see me.

"After some little time the women brought in many shawls, dresses, rings, bracelets, leggings and moccasins. Then they had me change clothes. They braided my hair and painted my face with red dots on my cheeks."

Her Wedding Attire.

This was her wedding attire. They were married and in the years that followed had eight children. Then, she continues, "my husband's health became broken. We summoned many Indian doctors and gave away much personal wearing apparel and some clothing. One day he pledged a sacrifice offering, a sacred ritual, which is regarded as a prayer to the spirits for health and strength. But he passed away before we could carry out the pledge.

"I surely loved my husband. His death made me very lonely and was a terrible event in my life. My hair was cut off just below my ears. This was done by an old woman.

"Before cutting off my braids she first raised both her hands toward the sky, touched the earth with the palms of her hands, and made a downward motion, repeated four times. Thus, my braids were cut off in accordance with the belief that the spirits would be pleased and extend blessings and sympathy to the bereaved. The old woman was given a blanket and a dress. His death marked the passing of our tepee. If people do not come and carry away something the whole tepee is destroyed by fire."

Attorney Pays $26,000
for 41-Mile Railroad

Philadelphia.—The name of Winthrop Sargent, Jr., Philadelphia attorney, was added to the distinguished list of American railroad magnates. It cost him $26,000. He was the only bidder at a receiver's sale.

Here's what he bought: Forty-one miles of standard gauge track, between West Denton, Md., and Lewes, Del.; four empty box cars and one real steam locomotive complete with a whistle. Mr. Sargent, commenting on his purchase, said:

"Such as it is, I intend to run the railroad just as it is being run for the present at least. I really don't know much about it, but I am reliably informed that it has a locomotive which works."

Complete Plans For Walther League Meet

The various committees in charge of the first annual Walther League convention of the Albany District met on Sunday afternoon at Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church on Livingston street where the convention will be held on June 11 and 12.

The committees together with the executive board of the Albany District have been working very hard in an effort to secure the Rev. W. A. Maier, Ph. D., as the speaker for the convention. It is with extreme regret that they are forced to announce that Dr. Maier will be unable to be present for the convention due to the fact that it will be necessary for him to be present at the Synodical Conference of the Missouri Synod which is to be held in Milwaukee at about the same time.

The international headquarters in Chicago has advised the executive board of the Albany District that the speaker in the place of Dr. Maier would be the Rev. J. H. Gockel, hospital secretary of the International Walther League, or the Rev. A. R. Kreitzmann of Chicago. The Rev. Mr. Gockel has represented the Albany District on different occasions and is well known in the district as a very able speaker.

The convention will open with a meeting of the resolutions committee at 9 a. m. on Saturday morning, June 11. The first business session will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mayor Eugene B. Carey will officially welcome the delegates and guests at the opening of this session.

The Young People's Society and the Junior Walther League Society will present a three act play entitled "Sound Your Horn" on Saturday evening beginning promptly at 7:45 p. m. This play is a very late edition as it has only been released last year.

The bowling alleys of the church will also be open Saturday morning and Saturday afternoon after the close of the business session so that anyone wishing any exercise may try his skill at this popular sport.

The Walther League Service will be held on Sunday morning, June 12. The members of the league will meet in the basement of the church to march into the church in a body. The international representative will preach the sermon at this service.

The public at large is cordially invited to attend this service. The second session of the Convention will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday afternoon, June 12. At this session the various resolutions recommended by the resolutions committee will be acted upon as well as the hearing of the reports of various officers of the league.

On Sunday evening at 7:30 a special service in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington will be held. The international representative will also give the address at this service.

The Albany District Walther League is composed of societies from Albany, Schenectady, Utica, Syracuse, Hudson and Kingston and it is expected that about 250 to 300 delegates and guests will be present for the entire period of the convention.

Tense Fight in House
For Economy Bill

Washington, April 27 (AP).—Smoldering fires of opposition in the rank and file of House membership greeted the deep-plashing bill for governmental economy and the stringent rule of procedure under which the united leadership demanded today that it be taken up.

Wage cuts for federal employees, reduction in allowances to certain groups of World War veterans, and other controversial provisions which make up an enormous proportion of the savings offered, were the spring boards from which groups in both parties jumped into a common fight against the sponsors of the legislation. These leaders proposed first of all adoption of a rule to cut debate to minutes instead of hours and restrict the number of amendments that might be offered to a virtual minimum.

Nowhere near as drastic as rules employed in days when huge party majorities could dominate the House, the procedure left room for great alteration of the bill, and such an outcome was almost certain. Nevertheless, the opposing groups sought to beat it, and throw the bill wide open to attack and defeat.

To obtain the majority vote required for the rule's adoption, leaders waged an intense campaign to convince the representatives of the extent of public demand for rigid economy.

The expectation of the leaders was for the three days and nights of consideration, with passage some time Friday night.

Kingston Moose
Install Officers

At a meeting in its rooms on Cedar street Tuesday night, Kingston Lodge, 970, Loyal Order of Moose, installed officers for the ensuing year as follows: Arthur F. Kidd, dictator; Chester C. Hutton, vice-dictator; Anthony J. Erena, prelate; John B. Hourticq, treasurer; George W. Moore, secretary; L. C. Post, trustee; Walter Corey, sergeant at arms; William A. Robertson, delegate to the Cleveland convention and Leonard J. Stauble, alternate delegate. The installing officer was W. A. Robertson.

It was announced by the board of trustees that the lodge had enjoyed one of its best periods in membership during the past fiscal year. The lodge expects to burn the mortgage on Mooseheart Day, a considerable amount having been sold on the building. Richard E. Eren, steward, served a tasty roast beef supper following the installation and meeting.

NATION ON ROLLER SKATES.

It may be that a rival to contraband bridge is arising in the land. It is the west of the Hudson River were amused lately to learn that New York society had taken to roller skates. Now, dwellers in the hinterland, if they look about them, will see new and nifty rubber-tired objects in the windows of hardware stores, dry goods stores, drug stores, and even department stores. These are modern roller skates, a cross between the child's scooter and old-fashioned roller skates. Where so many of these objects appear for sale, there either is a demand or there is going to be one.

There are other signs of the oncoming fad. A newspaper woman remarked in her column that she had a secret longing to roller skate on the sidewalks of her home town. To her surprise, letters began pouring in from readers who felt the same way. They were timid about starting, but eager. The dam of timidity is going to burst one of these fine spring days and a tide of roller skaters will pour forth across the continent. Roller skaters may yet solve the parking problem in business sections.

CHICAGO TAXES.

Chicago's "taxpayers' strike" is said to have been ended by the decision of the Illinois Supreme Court, reversing the decision of a lower court, which had held that assessments of 1928, 1929 and 1930 were illegal because they were too high compared with taxes on personal property. It is cheerfully announced that "this decision places the city and county on the way to a normal condition." There seems to be a hopeful assumption that the unpaid taxes for the last three or four years, amounting to a couple of hundred millions, will now be paid, along with the present taxes due.

To an outsider, this looks like unwarranted optimism. If the people who owed those taxes would not pay them even when they had the money,
 how are they going to pay them now,
 law or no law, when the money is mostly gone?

The so-called taxpayers' strike, which extends pretty well over the country, has become less of a deliberate withholding of tax payments than practical inability to pay them.
 Chicago can hardly be luckier in this respect than other cities. The worst thing about it is that non-payment of taxes, once started, tends to become a habit. Except for bad laws and bad enforcement, many communities would never have formed these bad habits.

THE EMPLOYER HAS RIGHTS

Considerable effort has been put forth since the depression began, both by talk and writing, to enact measures to prevent married women or more than one in a family from working, on the theory that more families could be fed, and that there would be less general unemployment.
 While there is probably some truth in this idea that there would be employment to care for more families, there is one serious objection which,
 in many instances, as so often happens, makes this idealistic mental plan the most unfair of programs.

What of the employer who has on his payroll people within these classifications: the employer who is getting satisfactory work, who has especially competent employees? Must he fire such persons and take on some thoroughly incompetent person?

There is no doubt but that times are hard and every cent in any business counts toward the success or failure of that business. The margin between success and failure has been narrowed, and the employer who understands the value of a business is most desirous.

Must the employer listen to the clamor of the union and employ persons who are of no use to him.

and who would probably wreck his business, and pay them in the bargain. Right now is the time to get rid of the old and get the new.
 The new is the only way to get rid of the old.

"This is a curious moment," declared Mr. Robert A. Millikan, the physicist, in a recent address. He thinks it is a curious moment in the history of the world, when the sciences were building the present, and when Newton was building the past. He was speaking of the law of gravitation. Quoting these scientists: "They all have their shortcomings. Millikan has none. He is not much interested in anything but the universe. He probably knows very little about Greek or Latin or Walter Winchell.
 Why the man actually gets excited about things that happened a billion years ago. He picks up a light wave from some spiral nebula off in a remote corner of the sky, that cannot even be seen with optical glasses, a wave that started out maybe before Adam was born, or before there were any Rocky Mountains, and from the excitement he registers, you'd almost think he was reading fresh news in a Chicago tabloid or listening to a baseball broadcast. What can you do with people like that?"

TO KEEP YOU WELL.

I believe the public and the dental profession are to be congratulated on the fact that it is considered only good sense to have the teeth examined once or twice a year. The patient saves money, saves his teeth, and is spared considerable pain by this arrangement.

Just why the public and the medical profession have not completed a similar arrangement whereby the patient undergoes a thorough examination at least once a year is easy to understand. For hundreds of years disease was looked upon as something that could not be prevented, and the public is not fully awake to the fact that that day is past, that disease is not "an accident" against which no precautions can be taken,
 for during recent years many diseases have been made preventable through the advance of medical science.

In children's diseases there is not now the dread of diphtheria, of scarlet fever, of infantile paralysis and other diseases, as there was a few years ago.

With adults there is no longer the danger of typhoid fever, pernicious anemia, diabetes and other diseases, because medical science can not only cure many ailments, but can also prevent them.

Why then do people die of many ailments if they may be prevented?
 Simply because they have not learned that it is unwise to wait until disease comes, that they should see their family doctor and get a thorough examination at least once a year.

Just as you arrange to see your dentist although you know of no cavity or infection in the teeth,
 so also should you see your doctor while you are in good health and know of no reason why you should remain in good health.

Now you are interested in your health because it is your biggest asset. Do you know that some other organization wants to keep you well, wants to prevent your death? The insurance companies naturally want you to remain well, and pay your premiums, because they must pay over a considerable sum of money to your dependents when you die.

What are they doing about preserving your health?
 They are actually providing the physical examinations free of charge to policy holders, and paying the doctors themselves.

You can rest assured that if it pays the insurance companies to keep you well, it should certainly pay you to get this annual physical examination.

Chapter 9

RUNNING AWAY

THERE was no time to hide
 Jenny bent down to the lobby cat and talked to it urgently. The brim of her hat—applegreen like her frock—should surely hide her face.

Her ears were filled with the sound of his footsteps, coming closer and closer; level with her, passing, checking. Turning to wards her.

She straightened and looked up at him. He really was laughing at her.

There was no time to hide, Jenny bent down.

now. At least, he seemed to be,
 though not with his lips or his eyes.
 "Good morning, Jenny Revell."
 She was helplessly silent. He sat down beside her and she noticed that there was a good deal of color in his face. She feared it was there because her manner was offending him; and, for the moment, George was forgotten.

"I didn't think you would recognize me," she said childishly.

"Didn't you want me to? Was that why you were hiding behind that big hat? As a matter of fact," he went on, "I recognized your hands. . . . Does that surprise you?"

She was again tongue-tied. She looked down at her hands as though they could help her, George had once remarked that they were very beautiful, but that could hardly be the reason for yet she wore no rings, nothing to distinguish them.

"Why," said George, "one hand on his hip, one elbow crooked over the back of the seat, "do you always run away from my very simple questions?"

"They're not simple," returned Jenny from the depths of her perplexities. "I mean they may be easy for you to ask; but they're horribly hard to answer."

"Perhaps they are," he agreed unexpectedly. He, too, dangled a hand for the lobby cat to side against.
 "Let's exchange what is known as small talk instead. You remark that you wonder what I'm doing in this part of the world. Then I make the same kind of noise at you. The only thing really worth talking about is,
 of course, the stupendous coincidence of our meeting just here. Just now. But—"

Hastily, Jenny said—
 "I'm filling in time till twelve o'clock. Then I have to meet George."

"And I," said Arney politely,
 "am on my way from taking a pilot's report on his trip—to the office.
 If you honestly don't want to talk about the strangeness of our meeting—you and I in this quiet little pool of a place—we shall now talk to think of some more small talk.
 Fortunately for me, it's your turn."
 Involuntarily, she looked at him.
 There was in his last words no laughter-echo. His voice sounded abruptly tired; hurt. Disappointed.

OLDSMOBILE

President Speeds to Address Governors

Washington, April 27 (AP).—President Hoover set out this morning on his fastest moving work-day in recent months, carrying a special message to Richmond, Virginia, and intending to return to the White House by supper time.

The president speeded toward his mid-afternoon address before the governors' conference in the Virginia capital with a strong feeling that a reduction in state and local expenditures is a necessary adjunct to the federal money-saving program.

He believes the government's $200,000,000 omnibus economy program should set an example to state governments in shaving down their own expenditures.

The early morning hours were set aside by Mr. Hoover for putting finishing touches to his speech, dealing specifically with the relationship between the federal and state governments, particularly in matters of economy and taxation.

Two of the president's secretaries, his military and naval aides, Colonel Campbell D. Hodges and Captain Russell Train, and Captain Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, were in the party.

The only damage was that caused by the smoke.

Tuesday afternoon the fire department was called for a rubbish fire in the rear of 78 Abel street.

Plans Progress for Schmeling Welcome

The big job of making plans for Max Schmeling's welcome is finally under way. Billy McCarty having arrived in Kingston this afternoon to confer with Secretary Ashton Hart of the Chamber of Commerce concerning the celebration.

At the time The Freeman went to press the men were busy outlining in detail all of the events to take place probably on Wednesday, May 11, the date set for the heavyweight to come to town and settle at his training quarters, Greenkill Lodge. Nothing definite had been decided.

Max, according to the schedule of his barnstorming tour, is supposed to be in Peoria, Ill., today. From there he is to go to Fort Wayne, Ind., leaving that city for French Lick, Ind., where he will remain until April 30.

Jack Sharkey, who will try to retire Max of his championship some time in June, maybe the 16th and maybe the 20th, is still looking for a training camp, being undecided where to condition himself. He has three camps on his list, Swannano Country Club at Oakridge, N. J.; Greenwood Lake, N. J.; and Pompton Lake, N. J., where he trained last year.

Yesterday Sharkey visited Long Island City to inspect the site of the Garden's outdoor arena being constructed for the championship bout.

According to The American this morning the bashful Sailor said he weighs 265 pounds now, and that he expects to weigh 290 pounds by the date for the annihilation of Schmeling. He told newspapermen he expects to smother Schmeling into a limp mass with the first punch. Three punches, at the most.

According to Mrs. Amarello's statement at the time she obtained the warrant Mayone had entered her store at Wilbur and Greenkill avenues and struck her in the face. Mayone was represented by Attorney Robert Howard while Attorney N. LeVan Haver appeared for The People.

COURT HOUSE AND JAIL IS SPICK AND SPAN

There is much favorable comment over conditions at the Ulster county jail and court house these days, especially regarding the spick and span appearance of everything, inside and out. A visit to the jail corridors Monday disclosed trustees busily engaged in mopping up the floors, cleaning windows and dusting off the iron bars surrounding the different tiers of cells. The prisoners themselves seem to take an interest in keeping their surroundings neat and clean, with possibly a little official "encouragement" in some instances, attending to the making up of their beds early in the morning and putting things in order generally.

SENATE HOUSE COLLECTION AUGMENTED BY GLOBE

School District No. 4 of the town of Marlborough, has presented to the Trustees of the Senate House Association a fine old terrestrial globe showing the conditions of both hemispheres and particularly the United States in 1842.

ROCHE CONVICTED.

Troy, N. Y., April 27 (AP).—Alfred E. Roche, 45, commissioner of public works, and member of a prominent up-state family, was sentenced today to serve 30 days in jail because employees in his department dumped refuse on property of a private citizen. Lindbergh Kidnaping Remains Unsolved Hopewell, N. J., April 27 (AP).—Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was still missing today, despite a high official declaration that Col. Lindbergh is understood to have made a personal contact with the baby's kidnapers.

This contact is reported to have been made in Virginia while the flying colonel was away from his estate last Monday and Tuesday. Police officials denied knowledge of it.

The persons who met Col. Lindbergh were understood to be the same group which received $50,000 ransom recently and then failed to return the child.

Major Charles H. Schoeffel, deputy superintendent of state police, returned last night from a trip abroad but refused to say whether he had learned anything about the Lindbergh case.

Another Move by Norfolk Men.

Norfolk, Va., April 27 (AP).—Another act—perhaps the final—in the mystery drama played by three Norfolk men attempting to recover the Lindbergh baby was believed to be drawing towards its close today with the sea as the probable setting.

John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk boat builder, is playing the important role of contact man with the men believed to be the kidnapers or their representatives. Reports from Hopewell, N. J., indicate that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh may join the Norfolk intermediaries on a boat off the Virginia coast in the hope of bringing the negotiations to a successful conclusion.

While the movements of both Mr. Curtis and the yacht Marcon were soon lost in the darkness of their Sunday night departure, it was indicated that the negotiators boarded the Marcon for another trip through the Virginia capes.

The other two intermediaries, the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, said they had received no word from their associate since his departure.

On its present trip the boat is thought to have as passengers in addition to Mr. Curtis and the crew, a naval officer and Edwin B. Bruce of Elmira, N. Y., a friend of Mr. Curtis.

Court House And Jail Is Spick And Span

There is much favorable comment over conditions at the Ulster county jail and court house these days, especially regarding the spick and span appearance of everything, inside and out. A visit to the jail corridors Monday disclosed trustees busily engaged in mopping up the floors, cleaning windows and dusting off the iron bars surrounding the different tiers of cells. The prisoners themselves seem to take an interest in keeping their surroundings neat and clean, with possibly a little official "encouragement" in some instances, attending to the making up of their beds early in the morning and putting things in order generally.

Contrasting Patterned Woolens

New Affinities for Our Navy Costumes

New York. Whether or not we are going to the world, we are in the navy now. Spring and navy blue often come hand in hand, but navy was more important than it is this spring. Milliners especially stress this fact. In former years, black hats, lined or white ones, often topped navy costumes, but now a navy costume means a navy hat, with white or colored accessories. And there are navy shoes, as often as not. And handbags. And gloves.

While white seems the natural affinity of navy, the red is admittedly a contrast. This season head-costume designers lacking their brains for less banal contrasts. One immediately thinks of the pastel range, especially of pink, light blue and yellow. But Paris has decided that pastel green is very intriguing with navy, and when you see this combination, you will agree. Pastel made a rather daring move when it introduced strawberry with navy. Schiaparelli has also favored this alliance, but contented herself with a much paler strawberry than the vivid one used by Paton.

While there will undoubtedly be many white blouses worn this spring and summer, colored ones are getting the recognition they undoubtedly deserve. One of the highlights of the fiftieth season is the white suit with a blouse of either pastel or vivid color. This sounds very striking and is so reported. There are also suits worn with a scarf criss-crossed and entirely covering the blouse. This idea is highly approved by lovers of novelty. There are also blouses that almost entirely relieve the blouse. Nevertheless the blouse in itself should be stylish.

Forming Your New Habits

New York. In riding habits, stress is laid on the fact that while coats are fitted, they do not flare over the hips, but fit them snugly. Breaches are slightly changed, featuring sauteen bands at bottom that fit snugly around the leg, so that there is no chance of their pulling up and chafing. Stress is also laid on sewing to give a better fit over the knee. In jodhpurs, a slit and elastic-band treatment at the ankle is introduced for the purpose of making the garment easier to get into.

This daytime costume, from Agnes-Dreccoll, is done in navy silk crepe, the jacket tying over at one side, and revealing an interesting sleeve treatment—wide under the arm, and slashed at the outer arm to reveal the dotted sleeve of the frock. The dress is in one piece and endorses the twin-print idea in dots—blue and white and red and white.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A Pretty Frock for the Junior

Black and white, navy and white, beige and brown are suggested, or printed and plain fabrics in combination. Inverted tucks, trim the neck and sleeves. The lengthwise seams of the skirt terminate in low placed plaits. Criss cross seams outline the yoke and inserts on the skirt portion and the waist shows deep points on the upper part of the front. The sleeves are cut in one with the waist.

Designed in 4 sizes: 11, 12, 13 and 14 years. Size 15 will require 3 1/2 yards of 35-inch material. Neck fold, bow, sleevebands and belt of contrasting material will require 1/2 yard 39 inches wide. The belt to be cut crosswise, and the bow and bands

Coinage Statistics

The United States gold dollar contains 25.8 troy grains. A troy pound contains 5,760 troy grains, but the more familiar avoirdupois pound contains 7,000 troy grains. A million dollars in United States gold coin, therefore, weighs 3,686.4 pounds, avoirdupois. The standard silver dollar weighs 412.5 troy grains, and a million dollars in such coin would weigh 56,661 pounds, or nearly 2 1/2 tons.

Empire State Apple Princess

MISS ELIZABETH K. COCHRAN

Selected by the New York State Horticultural Society, Miss Elizabeth K. Cochran of LeRoy, N. Y., will be accorded the honor of a princess representing the Empire State at the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival at Winchester, Va., early in May.

The governor of Virginia asked the governor of New York to designate a young woman to represent his state at the court of Queen Shenandoah. Governor Roosevelt agreed that it would be a fine thing and asked the Horticultural Society, representative of the fruit growers of the state, to pick the princess.

Committees of the Horticultural Society were advised from Virginia that it is contemplated that appointment shall be made upon the basis of youth, social standing and personal charm.

They unanimously agreed that Miss Cochran possessed all of these things. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Cochran of LeRoy and is a student at Sweet Briar College in Virginia.

This spring's apple blossom festival at Winchester is the ninth annual event. Members of the New York State Horticultural Society are particularly interested because of their close affiliation with the Virginia State Horticultural Society, of which former Gov. Harry F. Byrd is president. More than 400 members of the New York society made a week's tour of the Shenandoah apple region in 1929 and officers of the two societies have co-operated in many ways.

The Shenandoah festival this year will feature the George Washington Bicentennial.

YOUNG MAN ACTING IN STRANGE MANNER SENT HOME

John Pro, a young man employed on the farm of Coroner George Suiter at Marlborough, began acting in a strange manner a few days ago. He told weird stories of having killed members of his family and stated that before leaving Marlborough he intended to kill some people there. This unusual conduct attracted the attention of Mr. Suiter who notified Sergeant John Lockhart of the State Troopers. Sergeant Lockhart made an investigation and decided Pro had become mentally unbalanced. Relatives in New Jersey were notified and Monday came to Marlborough and took the young man back home. During the time he was being held by Sergeant Lockhart awaiting arrival of relatives he told many unusual tales and was under the impression a plot was being formed to kill him.

Olives, Bull Rings, Goats And Donkeys

Also Castles in Spain, Where There are No Overcasts But Earrings are Essential and Nobody Worries.

Malaga, April 4, 1932.

Dear Mr. Editor:

This is really my last appearance—my "Hail and Farewell!" for we sail on the 10th for home. But I can't let you off without telling of our trip to Ronda and a few other little last things. Ronda is one of the high spots of all Spain, and one of the gems of Andalusia. It is a high spot in beauty not only, but in situation, being 2,700 feet above sea level, right on the top of a mountain from which (as Natty Bumppo did from the Overlook) one can look over "creation." We went with friends who live here, and they called for us a little before eight in the morning. For four and a half hours we drove through fertile valleys, over threads of roads that wound by hair-raising curves across mountains and down through gorges, clinging to the rocky sides, then across plains of high table lands brilliant with the green of the new crops (there are three planted crops a season here) and the spring leafage of the fruit trees, scenery that made one catch the breath with its sheer beauty as well as grandeur. The mountains seem to loom with a gray threat, and then on approach their hoary sides are soft with a kind of wild grass where goats are pasturing and genets with its yellow bloom shelters rabbits that dart out as you pass, while olive trees go climbing like old cripples almost to the top. There were little villages on tops of hills, remains of old Moorish strongholds, all whitewashed and complete, looking in the distance like toys, but when you drove through them you realized the strength and solidity of these low stone houses, where the shepherds and small farmers have for hundreds of years huddled together for company and defense. All the way we passed at times long strings of tiny donkeys loaded with great stacks of olive castings, furze from the hills under their ovens and branches of trees. They looked like haystacks moved by minute pipe-stem legs. These pretty little animals passing up-hill and down everywhere are the common carriers of Spain. They move under the heaviest of loads with a short ambling trot, that is very graceful, and their endurance is limitless.

Ronda is famous for its wood-carving. We went first to the most eminent of the carvers, who has taken medals and decorations, and is considered an artist. He was making beautiful furniture and studio, the beautiful furniture our friends were piece "signed" underneath, and with the initials of the owner carved in below. "These," they explained, "are to be heirlooms—the antiques of the distant future!" I am sure I hope so, but some sad little pictures rose up in my mind of later county auctions whence old family treasures as precious were scattered to the four corners of the world. The work is very beautiful, and the wood is usually black walnut with a soft hand polish. Each piece was very reasonable in price, but beyond my purse. Across the narrow street and further along was another place where the prices were really wonderful, though the work was not quite so finished.

As in every considerable town in Spain, Ronda has a bull ring. But this one was built out of an old Roman Amphitheatre. The ancient wall of the original structure still is the boundary of the ring, but the guardians care but little for that.

They want only to show you where the bulls are hoisted by ropes and pulleys on a platform, and run down a chute into the arena. No bull fights anywhere this year probably, it seems they cost a lot of money, and are generally financed by the state. They never take place until spring, and to one knows when there will be one here in Malaga again. For centuries the sole public distraction of the people that was not religious, one wonders if the now universal movies or "cinemas" as they say here, may not in time take some what the place of the ancient pastime.

The hotel at which we stayed (our friends left us soon after lunch to motor back to Malaga) was worth a journey to experience. It stands in a park on the very top of the mountain, surrounded by a superb garden walled in by a parapet over which one looks down three hundred and fifty feet into the abyss below. Spread out in the valley and up the mountains opposite are ancient Moorish farms. One can trace the walls, the donkey paths paved in stone that lead up to the olive groves still there, and the runways for irrigation. Through this valley runs a wild river, the Guadalevin, and when it gets to Ronda it rushes through the gorge that divides the two mountains with a roar like a lion, but for thousands of years it has furnished water for crops, for fountains, for drinking and for the four mills. Below us sweep flocks of swallows, and pigeons, and a hawk chasing them. To walk about the garden is a rare treat for the gardener is the Manager, an English lady, who with entirely unskilled help produces here such sheets of bloom and fragrance as is to be seen nowhere else in this part of the country. It must be only a spring garden, for everything dries up in the summer. There were millions of daffodils under the grove of Australian Pines, a great stretch of blue scyllas and masses of Japanese anemones, reaches of carnations, with pansies, white violets, heliotrope and orange blossoms filling the air with heavenly odors.

The gem of the old city is the "Casa del Moro" (house of the Moorish King) now the property of the Duquesa de Parcent. It is an old Moorish house of different stories built on a steep side hill. There are patios or enclosed courts with fountains and lovely flowering trees and shrubs in them, countless rooms at different levels all filled with treasures of painting and old furniture belonging for generations to the family of the owners, an old Catholic family of the nobility who live most of the year in Madrid. The Duchess has done wonders for Ronda, reviving the art of wood-carving and standing behind the sale of the product, and has reestablished the art of hand-loom weaving of which the present output is beautiful. Her garden is Moorish, with fountains and tiled seats of great beauty, and there are look-outs at each level where one can stand and look down hundreds of feet below to the deep gorge.

I never thought it would grieve me to say good-bye to Spain as it does. A country of great beauty, a polite and friendly people, streets full of interest and children and donkeys, and goats coming down from the hills to be milked before the doors. Nobody hurries, nobody worries, living is cheap, and the climate is kind, so clothes are not a problem. If one has no shoes, one goes barefooted, hats are as little worn, that it is not easy to buy one, and the man who owns an overcoat is a rare bird! As for the women, the essential is a pair of earrings, which can be bought on every block from ten dollars to ten cents and less. And the street scenes—bells of strutting brass on the horses and donkeys, a kind of shouted song of the sellers of fish and vegetables, the shrill cries of the children begging for "pennies, pennies!" but best of all the scissor grinder, who plays a little tune on a flageolet! There is a hawk who sings a strain of an old Moorish song as he sells clams under my window, and under and over all I can hear the gentle sigh of the breakers on the beach below the garden. I cannot say good-bye to Spain because I hear all about me the alluring calls to return—that soft Castilian greeting that takes the place of farewell—"Hasta la vista, Signora!"

Who was Who?

By LOUISE M. COMSTOCK

PARACELSUS

THE real Paracelsus, idealized into a symbol of the impossibility of separating knowledge and life by Robert Browning in the poem of that name, was a Swiss physician, chemist and alchemist, who lived from 1493 to 1541.

Like the character he inspired Paracelsus devoted his life to a search for knowledge and, scorning the information available to him from the students of the past, set out on an independent search for the real character of matter. While professor at the University of Basel, Paracelsus publicly burned the works of Avicenna and Galen, fathers of medical science, and set himself up as "monarch of physics." It was an age when science was still bound up in black magic, when chemistry was as yet alchemy and chemists devoted precious lifetimes to weird searchings for the formulae for the creation of life. Though Paracelsus dealt like the rest in much humbug and played vigorously upon the ignorance and superstition of the time, he stands nevertheless as founder of modern pharmacology.

Browning is not concerned with the real contribution of his hero to the learning of the world, but with the effect of a life devoted exclusively to research upon a man's soul. Written when the poet was only twenty-three years old, "Paracelsus" is astounding in its revelation of the disintegration of character.

Clean Up Week Here Designated

The Board of Public Works has set aside the week of April 27 to May 4, as Clean Up Week in Kingston, and has issued the following proclamation:

With the passing of winter and the entrance of spring, we, the Mayor and Members of the Board of Public Works, do hereby designate the week of April 27 to May 4, inclusive, as Kingston Clean Up Week, and urgently request the people of the city of Kingston to engage themselves, or someone for them, to clean their yards, sidewalks, attics and storerooms, and place the refuse on the curb on the days set aside for ash collection in their respective neighborhoods. After all yards and houses have been cleaned up by our citizens, the street department following Clean Up Week will sweep and clean the streets, and then flush them to free them from all the winter's dirt. Our traffic lanes will then be newly painted white and within a short time our city will be in a spick and span, sanitary and presentable condition.

We, like all other municipalities, have been overcome by this strange malady and economic condition, known as depression. It is not a physical condition, more a moral one. We need, not a physician's treatment, but a reawakening of our own morale.

We urge each and every one of our citizens to assist us during Clean Up Week, and with the city putting on a brighter and cleaner aspect, it should overcome the present situation. This, we believe, should remove some of the obstacles to the revival of economic prosperity.

There is a distinct feeling of dismay in the air, let's start in Kingston to help the nation overcome the depression rather than progressively deepen it, readjust ourselves, and remove the something that is wrong.

Clean up and throw away the past to remove the cause instead of treating the effects. Reassure confidence in yourself. We urge you to do this for the common good of all.

Given under our hand and the seal of the City of Kingston this 26th day of April, 1932.

Sir Hubert Wilkins To Lecture Tonight

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the Kingston High School auditorium, Sir Hubert Wilkins will lecture on his submarine trip to the North Pole. The lecture will be illustrated by the moving pictures taken during the expedition under the ice of the Arctic Ocean. This is the most educational and interesting feature Kingston has had in a number of years and it is expected that a large crowd will attend.

Members of the Frisna Society, which is sponsoring this lecture, are selling tickets but they may also be obtained at the door tonight.

Amazing Wrote About Submarines

Most of the world believes that the idea of submarine navigation originated with the French novelist, Jules Verne, who published an adventure tale entitled, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" in 1870. It seems, however, that the idea was advanced as early as 1684 with detailed description of a submarine equipped for polar travel, in a book called "Mathematical Magick" published in London by a clergyman named John Wilkins. Though it seems extraordinary that such a book should be conceived before the advent of the machine age, yet records show that the remarkable John Wilkins was born 123 years before the English Watt of the steam engine, 151 years before the American Fulton of the steamboat, and 294 years before a steamboat first crossed the Atlantic. Reproductions of the title page and other parts of this ancient volume are contained in Sir Hubert Wilkins' book, "Under the North Pole," published by Brewer & Warren of New York. Fantastic as it seems, the John Wilkins of "Mathematical Magick" is the ancestor of Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins, the first man ever to try this daring method of Polar exploration. Stranger still is the fact that Captain Wilkins himself did not know he had such an ancestor until Bishop Wilkins' long forgotten book was brought to light in some dusty library. Wilkins claims that he had not even read Jules Verne until after he planned his Polar submarine voyage.

Gorgeous Prints With Velvet Accents

By CHERRIE NICHOLAS

FASHION has discovered nothing more gloriously harmonized to afternoon and formal evening environment than richly colorful prints. This season, more than ever, printed materials have a way of telling their intention. You know the moment you look at a print whether it is to be worn formally or informally.

As in every other realm of fashion at the present moment, it is smart for prints to be gay. The dressier prints, especially, are perfectly gorgeous. This is so not only in the matter of their exotic coloring, but their patterning is outstanding. One finds, for instance, such striking effects among evening chiffons as a black background with life-size tulips printed in red and white with leaves in lively green. Natural flowers which look almost as if hand-painted flourish in the printed mode, special prominence being given to field flowers, the red of the enormous poppies and the blue of the cornflowers responding to the red, white and blue of the now-so-fashionable bi-centennial colors.

A crinkled construction is favored in chiffons this season, which include many tinted grounds with delicate artful color work in var-sized patterns. These carry large florals of tropical aspect, which seem to say that they are going to dance under moonlit skies or pose on picturesque verandas, or be seen elsewhere amidst luxurious surroundings under glamorous lights.

Bordered chiffons done in real flower colorings capture the fancy of every woman seeking the new and the beautiful. They work up delightfully into the new scarf drapes and gypsy girdle effects.

Just as if the richly colorful prints of present vintage were not sufficient unto themselves, fashion fills their cup of beauty full to overflowing by adding a velvet accent which repeats a leading tone of the designful patterning. It may be achieved, this added touch of elegance, via a velvet girdle or soft tied bows at the shoulder or at other strategic points. It is, perhaps, to their little velvet wraps that evening fashions owe most of their galaxy. Waist-length jackets or capes or boleros—the treatments are varied, but the idea is universally appealing.

Fashion-wise budgeteers, this year are planning at least two jackets with their evening frocks—one in velvet in a high color and the other in the fabric, which makes the dress. For instance, the strikingly colorful printed flowery dress with its jewel-clipped velvet girdle as shown to the left in the illustration spends as you now see it, a formal afternoon at bridge. With the jacket removed it stays on for dinner and dancing. It again alters its appearance completely when later on in the season of festivities it changes its printed jacket for a short wrap of bright medall velvet that matches one tone in the print.

When it comes to thrills and thrills, too, for that matter, for many of them boast myriads of prettily frivolous ruffles and shirrings, there is nothing so conspicuously present as the new little capelet wraps of velvet in vivid tone. For instance, if midday's dress is made of one of the very new printed heavy sheer crepes like the Fernian print pictured on the figure standing to the right in the picture, she may wear a wrap-around cape of flame-colored medall transparent velvet to repeat a colored motif in the print. It is taken for granted that somewhere in reserve a brief jacket of matching print is in waiting to complete upon demand a perfect ensemble for dinner or informal evening wear.

The twisted scarf, or those braided, which employ two or three colors of velvet, are accessories which should be included in every wardrobe of pretty trifles which brighten the spring or summer costume.

TWO STELLAR EVENTS IN KINGSTON DURING JUNE

Kingston and its neighborhood will have two antipodal activities, in June. One will be the General Synod of the Reformed Dutch Church in America, which will bring here some of the most distinguished clergymen of the country. Another will be the Schmelling training performance at Greenkill Park which will bring a large gathering of sportsmen and their followers.

The arrangements at Greenkill Park including the placing of telephone, telegraphic cables and wires is about completed. The Consistory of the First Dutch Church began the repainting of the wood work of that famous edifice on Tuesday morning. It is to be hoped they will recite the hands and numerals of the great clock in the church tower which for over eighty years has been the time-piece not only of the city but of all the surrounding country.

GRASS FIRES DANGEROUS AND DESTRUCTIVE

One of the great scourges of the spring is the grass fire started by unthinking people to burn last year's withered crop of grass.

The State Conservation Commission recently has denounced the building of these fires. Four of them recently started in the vicinity of Ellenville threatened that beautiful village with destruction. A number started in this city and its neighborhood were extinguished with great difficulty. Not only do these fires threaten valuable property but they ruin the grass plots over which they are burned in that they weaken and frequently utterly destroy the roots of the grass.

The Conservation Commission advises the use of a rake with wooden or bamboo teeth to remove the dead surface grass. Wiltwreck Rural cemetery has a force of five men at work with these rakes removing dead grass. Some of the other cemeteries have resorted to the expedient of fire.

DAYTIME PRINTS

By CHERRIE NICHOLAS

Jane Reany designed this unusual and very likable frock for afternoon wear, featuring one of the neat daytime prints in a small all-over patterning in soft shades of blue. The styling which calls for front flat-skirt lines in contrast to a graceful tiered flare at the back is admirably demonstrated in this model. Many of the smart lace evening frocks have adopted this tiered, flared effect at the back with flattering success.

Swift's Familiar-Saying

The verse about the fleas having smaller fleas to bite them is frequently quoted. Dean Swift wrote the following: "So, naturalists observe, a flea has smaller fleas that on him prey; And these have smaller still to bite him; And so proceed ad infinitum."

AFTERNOON FROCKS NOT SO ELABORATE

With the return of beige as a costume color, other pastels have come into prominence—soft pinks and greens and blues. But there is no elaboration to these frocks.

They do not approach the feminine fashion of afternoon dresses that we have always associated with the name. For these are essentially day-time dresses. The smartest frocks are fashioned along simply tailored lines, without much trimming, except perhaps the ever-present lingerie touches.

Rough silk crepes and flat silk crepes are used, but always silks with dull surfaces. Sheer crepes also, of the heavier varieties, that tailor almost like flat crepe, are very smart for spring.

Black dresses, with plenty of white trimming, will, of course, be worn with black coats, but many women will seize this opportunity for lightness and brightness. Coral, pink, light greens and blues and beige all make smart frocks to wear with black coats. With a blue coat the lighter shades of blue form a pleasing contrast. With brown, beige or the aquamarine shades are particularly attractive.

These dresses, fortunately, will not be long.

Longer dresses will be of a more formal type for late afternoon occasions and formal dinner. These frocks will be more elaborate, and lower as to décolletage.

Drooping Shoulders New Graceful Figure Line

Women shouldn't wilt this season in evening gowns but just a slight drooping of the shoulders (with perfect dignity and body control is considered a new and graceful figure line).

In order to help the smart women to accomplish this little trick without overdoing it, you will find that dress-makers have turned to the insertion of many ruffles, guiding the lines in artful swerves about and off the shoulders. This is done for coats as well as dresses and blouses.

Destructive Crickets

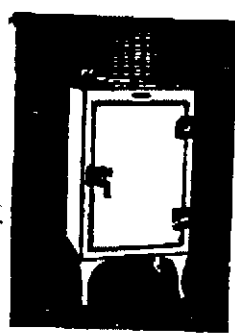

Crickets do not subsist entirely on clothing, as clothes moths do. In fact, they are essentially field insects, which live on plant material naturally. However, they do get into houses for the sake of warmth, and in some cases eat clothing when no other food is available.

A statement of great importance

TO THOSE WHO PLAN TO BUY AN ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

ANNOUNCING A FOUR YEAR SERVICE PLAN

WE have replaced many thousands of refrigerators of other makes which have been in service only two or three years.

They were replaced because the excessive cost of servicing and maintaining them made it cheaper to buy new machines.

Low first price is not low cost. The few dollars that you might save today by buying a cheap refrigerator can quickly be consumed by repair bills and service charges. When the mechanism fails the refrigerator becomes just a box.

An Automobile Comparison

The average car is driven 60,000 miles. At 30 miles an hour this is 2,000 operating hours.

In one single year any automatic refrigerator must operate over 3,000 hours. In four years the mechanism of your refrigerator will have to equal the average lifetime wear of more than six automobiles.

The Heart of the Refrigerator is the Mechanism

70% of your investment goes into the mechanism. A good cabinet will last for years. The finish may scratch, or chip, or be marred, but is easily repaired. The thickness and insulating qualities of a cabinet and its durability are very important, but the heart of the whole refrigerator is the mechanism. It is unfair and misleading to misrepresent these facts.

General Electric knew all these conditions before our scientists and engineers approved the General Electric Refrigerator for public use. Other types are cheaper to manufacture and can sell for less; but we believe that no other type will give equal satisfaction, or as low a total cost of refrigeration over a period of years.

The Monitor Top

When the General Electric Refrigerator was designed, it was known that stuffing boxes would leak—so they were eliminated! Belts could break—so they were eliminated! Fans could get out of order—and they, too, were eliminated! Too much or too little oil caused trouble—so we eliminated the need for hand oiling. The General Electric Refrigerator is permanently, thoroughly and automatically lubricated.

The General Electric mechanism is a complete unit, compactly designed and built—hermetically sealed-in-steel—protected against tampering and against the ravages of air, dust, and moisture, the agents of deterioration which make repeated repairs necessary.

Natural Air Cooling

The General Electric Monitor Top mechanism is entirely different from the hundred conventional type machines in appearance—in basic design—in operating principle—and in performance!

Different in appearance because it was designed to perform a task—and different in appearance in the same manner that the 1932 automobile is different in appearance from the best carriage ever made—uncovered as it should be to give you the benefit of natural air cooling and to avoid the use of troublesome fans and belts and the consequent need for oiling. The General Electric Monitor Top mechanism is the cleanest—simplest—most compact—trouble-free refrigerating mechanism known today.

Our Experience Record

General Electric labored to give the highest quality at lowest cost; and that it has succeeded is proved by the outstanding performance record in the hands of our million and a quarter users. It gained its leadership within eighteen months and maintains that leadership now. During the past four years the public has invested over $300,000,000 in General Electric Refrigerators.

AND NOW—

A Four Year Service Plan

As a result of experience General Electric was the first to offer two additional years guarantee beyond the standard one year warranty. Now after 20 years of research, including the experience of over four years of actual field service with more than a million and a quarter users, General Electric again steps ahead of the refrigerator industry with a service contract protecting each new buyer against all service charges on the Monitor Top mechanism for three additional years beyond the standard one year warranty.

In case of trouble or failure General Electric does not patch the mechanism. A factory unit is installed without charge if failure occurs within the contract service period.

Today with new low prices, $10.00 delivers a General Electric Refrigerator to your home and 10 cents a meal pays for it.

So look to the mechanism—your service policy—and the manufacturer back of it before you buy—and then use your own good judgment.

Financial And Commercial

New York, April 27 (AP)—The stock market was inclined to venture cautiously higher in another session of light trading today.

The market pushed up a point or two at the start, then relinquished its gains during the middle of the morning. Appearance of support for U. S. Steel and General Motors at the bear market lows was encouraging, however, and rails led another little rally after midday.

The dividend and earnings news on U. S. Steel appeared to have been largely discounted. That issue sagged

Guide Found Guilty

Lowville, N. Y., April 27 (AP)—A hunter who accidentally shot his companion was found guilty yesterday of second degree manslaughter. He was Elmer Whitney, 52, veteran Adirondack guide. Whitney shot William Timm, 22, of Syracuse, while deer hunting. It was believed to be the first time a Lewis county hunter was found guilty of manslaughter in an accidental death.

The midweek business statistics made a somewhat mixed showing. The electric power production figures for the week ended April 23 showed a drop of 12.3 per cent, against 90 per cent in the previous week, and the largest comparative decline as far this year. It was notable, however, that there was a sharp gain in power consumption in the like week a year ago, in contrast to moderate decline in the preceding two years.

The "Iron Age" weekly survey tended to counterbalance the adverse effects of the omission of common dividends by U. S. Steel and Inland Steel, reporting input output at 21 per cent of capacity, against 22 1/2 in the previous week, and adding that the immediate outlook was for further improvement. "American Metal Market", however, was somewhat gloomy, stating that the steel picture for Ford Motor Co. are common, mostly unchanged. A little interest was manifested in Bethlehem Steel's directors' meeting tomorrow. The common dividend has already been omitted, and the management has stated that it will recommend continuance of the preferred, so the meeting was expected bring forth little save an unfavorable earnings report for the quarter. The market had been prepared for the Studebaker dividend omission.

Your Home .. and YOU ..

THE right sort of place silver is most important for correct dinner service, but there are certain pieces of specially designed serving silver that are also indispensable and others that are merely desirable.

Among those pieces that are really needed for correct serving of lunch, dinner or dinner are: gray ladle, sugar bowl, butter knife, and pudding spoon, and several large serving spoons for vegetables.

You should also have a berry spoon which may also be used for fruit and frozen puddings, a pickle fork, a whipped cream ladle, an olive spoon, a cold meat fork, a tomato server, a jelly server, and a cheese server. There should be two different salad sets—one consisting of large fork and spoon of silver for serving made salads and another set of wooden fork and spoon to use when salads are prepared on the table.

If you have a complete set of table silver you doubtless have all these things but if you have acquired your silver piecemeal you may have overlooked a number of them which you can buy now and then in the pattern to match the rest of your silver.

For a moderately priced wedding gift a piece of serving silver is always acceptable and in good taste, especially if it is chosen to match the rest of the silver in the bride's collection.

A LITTLE WHILE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A LONG, long time is soon a little while.

And every footstep makes a shorter mile.

If we would think in days instead of years,

Yes, even minutes as each day appears.

No time would then be long, or four-never far.

Whatever are our days, how few they are!

So step by step I try to walk my way.

Accept my sorrow, and with joy be gay.

Each day is shorter as the sun ascends,

And never yet a journey but it ends.

I try to live each minute more and more.

Climb hills when I come to them, not before.

And so each mile has roses here and there;

Then, if the journey's long, I do not care.

And so each minute has some beauty in.

Some treasure that I need not wait to win.

Wait not for tardy time some gift to give—

How much there is in life if life we live!

Shamrock of Tradition

Common White Clover?

On March 17, of all the year, the simple little trefoil of green stands proudly above all flowers, at least in the hearts of millions of Celts all over the world. The story of the Irish shamrock, and of its use by the seal-own and adroit Patrick to illustrate a wavering pagan king a vexed point in Christian doctrine, has been told over and over.

Just what plant Patrick stooped down to pluck in that memorable debate cannot certainly be stated; but it is likely that it was the common white clover. For the traditional shamrock of Ireland is not peculiar to the island of Saints alone, but grows everywhere that a chunk of limestone soil gives it favorable roasting.

Its special luxuriance in Ireland is due simply to the combination of ideal soil conditions and the peculiar Irish climate, with its mild winters and long, cool, moist summers.

One other plant contends with the clover its claim to the honor of being the original shamrock. This is one of the species of the oxalis or sheep-sorrel, well known in this country. Old Irish hermits give this plant also the name "shamrock," and ascribe to it medicinal virtues almost miraculous.

It will never be possible to determine the matter accurately. Before the seventeenth century or thereabouts, plants were classified by their leaves rather than by their flowers, so that the three-leaved clover and the three-leaved oxalis were both "shamrocks" to the early Irish.—Kansas City Star.

SOMETIMES Terry thought she was a good insurance solicitor—and sometimes she thought she wasn't. As she sat patiently in the reception room outside Mr. Bertram Carr's private office that January morning she was quite sure that she was not. She had sat there for an hour and twenty minutes. The day before she had sat there in precisely the same chair for an hour, and on several days before that she had sat there until she knew every angle and crevice of the well-furnished reception room by heart. She had been told that no one had ever been able to sell Mr. Bertram Carr life insurance—he didn't carry any life insurance whatever. He was thirty-five and a bachelor, and in Terry's notebook she had jotted down the information that he had an income of about twenty thousand dollars a year.

SPORT SLANTS

Gene Tunney inclines toward picking Jack Sharkey to whip Max Schmelling in their forthcoming brawl in the new Madison Square Garden Bowl, just over the East river from Manhattan.

The retired champion qualifies his preference, however, upon Sharkey's ability to "fight one of his best fights."

"Sharkey has it in him to beat Schmelling," Gene went on. "But it is uncertain what he will do, especially if he happens to get into a tight spot."

"He was beating Schmelling by a good margin up to the time of the foul in their first bout."

"Since then the German has improved, but he has made the mistake of not flanking offener. This is as bad for a young man as it is for a veteran."

"Too much strength should not be placed in Schmelling because of his decisive victory over Young Stribling at Cleveland last summer. Schmelling won that fight less through his own ability than Stribling's ineffectiveness. It was a rather mediocre performance on the German's part as a whole."

"Still there is no question Schmelling is strong, that he rates his pace well and is a punishing hitter."

Just Another Father.

Tunney's five-months-old son is the pride of his life just now.

"Why, that little fellow holds himself up now on his elbows just like a young athlete," remarked his eloquent parent. "He's a husky."

Gene has no pupils' ambitions for his boy, any more than he has the slightest thought himself of returning to the ring, but he probably will expect Gene Junior to hold his own in competition, perhaps in the Yale football line 20 years from now, or the collegiate boxing arena.

Cold Water for Bowl.

For no good reason, some of the more skeptical experts have tossed cold water on the Garden's new arena project, now under way in Long Island City.

It may be due to a dislike to cross rivers or leave the metropolitan mainland, if not to a "wrong angle."

Anyway, the new Bowl is being dug in time for the Schmelling-Sharkey affair, which probably will be held late in June to avoid too much conflict with the interests that will be politically-minded about that time.

It would never do to have a heavyweight title fight in New York while the Democratic chieftains, among the best prize customers, are getting their fill or oratory in Chicago.

The Garden Corporation, minus many of the millionaires who once made up the famous 600, will be no less "in the red" in the long run and may, indeed, show a profit by taking advantage now of the opportunity to build its outdoor arena on a cut-rate or long-run financial basis. The money saved in ball park rental after a few years should be enough to absorb most of the cost.

Levinsky Confident He Can Beat Walker

Chicago, April 27 (AP)—Mickey Walker will be the favorite when he climbs into the Chicago Stadium ring Friday night to meet King Levinsky, but the Kingfish is so confident of victory that he has decided to pass up an offer to box in Australia.

The King wants to be around to challenge the winner of the heavy-weight championship battle between Max Schmelling and Jack Sharkey next June, and he figures a victory over Walker will qualify him.

McLarnin-Fields Match Pending

Chicago, April 27 (AP)—Match-maker Nate Lewis again is negotiating for a championship bout between Jackie Fields, world welterweight champion, and Jimmy McLarnin, in the Chicago Stadium. The only hitch is a stipulation by Jack Kearns, manager of Fields, that McLarnin promise a return bout should he win. Pop Foster, McLarnin's promoter, has said he will not agree to that condition.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)

Beaten in six of their last seven starts, their pitching and fielding equally ragged and their morale not what it once was, the Philadelphia Athletics smarted today from the "unkindest" blow of all.

The Boston Red Sox, who in recent years have been just a warm-up for the American League champions, put on the salubrious touches yesterday when they lapped Lefty Grove, 10 to 3, and sent the Markmen bounding into sixth place.

Such a thing is almost unprecedented since the Athletics started hitting the high spots three years ago. They trimmed the Sox 16 times last season in 20 engagements.

Grove doing the honors three times, twice by the shutout route.

Webb Hits Homer.

For five innings the glamorous Grove looked like his old self, allowing not a hit, but in the last four frames the Boston boys rattled the Shibe Park fences with 10 solid blows, including a home run by Earl Webb, and won going away behind the steady five-hit pitching of young Ed Durham.

But if the big southpaw was ineffective, his support was far from alight. Joe Boley, shoved back into his old job at shortstop by Connie Mack in a desperate effort to tighten up the inner works, committed two glaring errors.

Dibrell Williams, the steady one of the last world series, touched off a six run Boston rally in the sixth when he juggled a roller.

Eddie Rommel hurled the last two innings for the Macks after Grove was removed for a pinch hitter in the seventh and had little better luck than his predecessor, allowing four runs.

Yanks Beat Senators.

While the A's were suffering, the New York Yankees were busy moving into second place in the league standing with a 6 to 5 victory over the Washington Senators, the first meeting of the year between the two staunch rivals.

The Senators made an uphill battle to tie the count in the eighth after the Yanks had scored five runs off Alvin Crowder in the first two innings, but it was to no avail. A walk to Lyn Lary, followed by Babe Ruth's smashing single and Gehrig's infield out provided Joe McCarthy's team with the winning score in the last of the eighth.

Only the two games escaped another day of rain and cold.

Kingston: "Hotel Continental."
A perfect cast, lavish sets, a superb plot, exceptional photography and direction all combine to make this a most entertaining picture. The play is modeled along the lines of the famous "Grand Hotel." The plot centers around a gentleman who returns to a famous hotel the night before it is torn down to recover some hidden loot he has left there.

An amazing number of plots and counter plots develop. His effort to make away with his stolen prize. People from all walks of life are thrown into the current of events, making the play exciting and enjoyable entertainment. The cast includes Theodore Von Eltz, Peggy Shannon and J. Farrell MacDonald. Orpheum: "Shanghai Express" and "Two-Fisted Justice." Marlene Dietrich is starred in this extremely different story, the action of which takes place aboard a deluxe Oriental train en route to Shanghai. Humans of all creeds and nationalities are aboard the train, and when it is held up by bandits, there is excitement and entertainment of unusual merit. Olive Brook, Anna May Wong, and Warner Oland are also in the cast. "Two Fisted Justice" offers Tom Tyler in a western thriller.

Broadway: "Seven Acts of Paramount Vaudeville" on the stage, and "Murders in the Rue Morgue" on the talking screen. The stage show offers the following acts: Harris and Pepper, "Marie De Coma," Dr. Relda, "Rus and Jerry's Arizona Cowboys," "Laddy Lamont and Paddy," and "Dick Keene and Nancy Kelly." "Murders in the Rue Morgue" is adapted to the screen from the famous Edgar Allan Poe story, turns out to be thrilling entertainment, with hands reaching out from nowhere, shrieks, murders, shadows on the wall, sinister movements, everything necessary to chill the spines of an audience. The cast in this play is headed by Bela Lugosi of "Dracula" fame, and Sidney Fox. Altz: "The Guardsman." Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, score heavily in their first film venture, and prove that their dramatic ability is worth anybody's time. The story is a clever and sophisticated satire, the tale of an actor who feared his wife would be untrue to him because of her admiration for soldiers. The husband impersonates a Guardsman, and strives to bring about a divorce from his wife in an effort to discover her faithfulness. Alfred Lunt, as the actor-Guardsman, and Lynn Fontanne as the doubtful wife, are perfect in these roles, and together they offer an evening of delightful entertainment. Roland Young and Zasu Pitts are also in the cast.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: "It's Tough to be Famous." Grand entertainment, with a new kind of plot, helped along by the inspired acting of both Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Mary Brian. This show will prove an enjoyable evening's entertainment for both young and old. It has excitement, comedy and a human quality that demands the interest of the audience. The story concerns a young man, who becomes a hero while in the service of his country, and he returns home to find himself a national hero. His life becomes the public's, his time belongs to everybody but himself, he is pampered, petted and idolized. Everything runs along all right until the public begins to become interested in his domestic happiness. This talkie is a fairly authentic study of hero worship as it is being done in these United States. Walter Catlett is also in the cast.

Orpheum: Same.
Broadway: "Ladies of the Jury" and "Seven Paramount Vaudeville Acts" on the stage. The talking picture offers one of the funniest comedy presentations to grace the screen in some time. The story is laid in a jury room, where one woman and eleven men hold the fate of a prisoner at stake. Edna May Oliver, in the role of the woman juror, is one against many, but before she finishes she not only brings the rest to her point of view, but she also creates enough laughs and chuckles while doing it that the show proves thoroughly enjoyable. There is actually one flaw in this play. The laughs come so thick and fast that the audience may miss some of them. It's clean, noteworthy entertainment, with a cast of real stars. Something to see. The stage show offers seven new acts of vaudeville, musically augmented by Jacob Mollett and his orchestra.

Ritz: "Beast of the City." Walter Huston, Jean Harlow and Wallace Ford give sterling performances in this dramatic picture that shows the obstacles and troubles that the police department of a large city must overcome in their battle against crime. It's a fairly clear cut picture of the constant battle of law and order against organized crime, brought to the screen in an entertaining and intelligent manner. Good entertainment.

Party Platforms

The first American party platform was drawn up in Washington in 1832 at a political meeting gathered to endorse the candidacy of Henry Clay and declare principles. The Democratic party did not adopt a platform or "address to the people" until the convention of 1840. In 1844 both Democrats and Whigs adopted platforms and the practice has been uninterrupted from that time.

When painting ceilings, one-half of a rubber ball slipped over the handle of the paint brush to form a cup prevents the paint from dripping.

One apple, grated, plus two to three tablespoonfuls of sugar, plus one egg white, beaten together until light, is a substitute for whipped cream.

But if that's the suit you're gonna wear
You'd better stay under the water.

There is one thing to be said about this depression. At least it has silenced the chorus of rising young financial geniuses who used to brag about the stupendous amount of money they were making.

Wife—Paul, this suit is very shabby. May I give it away?
Hubby—Heavens, no. That is the suit I go in to protest against my taxes.

Modern Version: "What the Lord giveth, the installment man taketh away."

Attorney:
The famous "golden horseshoe" was filled, as usual, with gorgeously gowned and bejeweled women, immaculately togged men, with their ermine wraps, diamond brooches, necklaces, tiaras.—Toronto Daily Star.

Hero—Cur! Where are those papers?
Villain—They are at the blacksmith's.
Hero—Ho! So you're having them forged?
Villain—No, I'm having them filed!

The guards went about their task of affixing the electrodes to the body of the doomed man in the electric chair. The chaplain bent over him and asked:

Chaplain—Have you any final request, my poor mortal? I am here to do anything you ask.

Doomed Man—yes, parson, it'll comfort me a whole lot if you will just hold my hands.

"Burglars are usually gloomy men," observes a writer. You certainly never find them singing at their work.

Little Mary was left to fix lunch, and when mother returned with a friend she noticed Mary had the tea strained.

Mother—Did you find the lost tea strainer?
Little Mary—No, Mother, I couldn't, so I used the fry swatter.

Mother was nearly swooning, so Little Mary completed it with:

Little Mary—Oh, don't get excited, mother, I used the old one.

A train was approaching.
Dennis—Here she comes.
Casey—Here it comes, you mean.
Murphy—Yes is both wrong, it's a mail train.

That man's fashion expert knew his onions when he predicted that there will be little change in men's clothes this spring.

A young lawyer who had been taken into partnership with his father soon got the idea that he was the whole firm, and fell into a habit of saying, at the conclusion of every successful case: "Well, father, I won that case all right." Finally, the old man, becoming irritated, protested: "George, it seems to me that whenever the firm does anything you might give me half the credit. Don't put on so many airs. The youth took the advice to heart, and a few days later rushed into the office: "Father, I—I mean we—are being sued for breach of promise."

Little things the boy friend does warm a girl's heart, but after they are married it's the little things that make her blood boil.

Old Cent (observing small boy loaded down with newspapers)—Don't all those papers make you tired?

Newsboy—No, sir, I don't read them.

Our idea of an economical wife is one whose husband wears one darned thing after another.
